School of Hotel Administration Student wins Yolato® for Entire Semester

Cornell University, Ithaca, NY, October 20, 2011 – Cornell Dining has awarded Jordan Will-Weber, Class of 2015 an entire semester’s worth of Yolato® frozen yogurt. Jordan, a student at the School of Hotel Administration, entered a drawing for the Yolato® at Cornell Dining’s West Campus Food Show, held at the Noyes Community Recreation Center on August 27, 2011. Cornell Dining hosts the food show annually to highlight different food products sold on campus, and to test potential new products by distributing samples and collecting feedback.

Yolato® donated 100 servings of their frozen yogurt, one cup plus one topping, to one lucky winner to use throughout the fall 2011 semester. Yolato®, sold at Jansen’s Market in Noyes Community Recreation Center and at Martha’s Café in Martha Van Rensselaer Hall, is made with local skim milk and all-natural Cornell Dairy plain yogurt, and is fat-free and low in calories. Available toppings range from healthier options such as mango, berries, and pineapple, to more indulgent ones such as chocolate chips and Oreo cookie bits.

When asked about winning, Jordan said, “I was so excited. The first thing I did was call my parents to tell them that I won. I can’t wait to get started.”

“Right from the start, Yolato® has been one of our most popular items at Jansen’s Market,” said Harry Ashendorf, Cornell Dining Operations Manager. “We are very happy to be able to partner with Yolato® to give away this great prize. Jordan and her friends are sure to enjoy it.”
